'2000 Mules' and a case currently in litigation. We provide this clarification on his statement:

The central premise of '2000 Mules', as identified and validated by True the Vote's (TTV) research, remains accurate. However, regarding the individual mentioned in Mr. D'Souza's statement, TTV had no editorial control over the '2000 Mules' movie and no involvement in the books. We did not select videos or graphics used for dramatic effect. This individual was not part of the geospatial study in which TTV identified 242 unique devices having visited at least 10 ballot drop boxes—a fact that was communicated to Mr. D'Souza's team. Despite this, D'Souza's team included a blurred video of this individual in their '2000 Mules' movie and book productions.
